

Julie Turpin is an accomplished retail executive and Adjunct Assistant Professor at the Fashion Institute of Technology.

With an extensive background that spans from buying and planning at Macy's to curating customer experiences and mission focused assortments for museum shops, Julie brings a unique blend of industry expertise and academic insight to the world of fashion retail and philanthropic development.